Chapter One

Online Dating

Like many men in the modern era, by my mid-thirties I found myself divorced. Before my marriage, I led a single life where dating, relationships, pretty girls, and sex were present, but a hassle. There was drama, compromises, hurt feelings, lots of money spent (on my part, of course) and lots of wasted time. I decided to look at women, relationships, and sex in a more relaxed and systematic matter.

My goal was to set things up where I could literally “press a button” and have dates (and sex) with beautiful women, whenever I felt like it. I didn’t want to try things that didn’t work. I didn’t want to wonder about what worked and what didn’t. And I didn’t want to waste time. I wanted a SYSTEM.

I wanted a system that was reliable and repeatable. A system for attracting beautiful women into my life.

First, I had to figure out where to find these women. Second, I needed a system for bringing these women home to my bed.

For finding the women, I didn’t want to scour the streets, grocery stores, and bookstores trying to pick up women that way (though later, I did become good at that). Also, I’m not a big drinker or partier, so hanging out at bars, clubs, and parties didn’t turn me on either. Lastly, I’m a self-employed guy with a business life that is very important to me, so staying out late into the evening on weeknights was not an option...that ruled out meeting women at dance clubs and the like.

So I went to the internet.

I tried approaching women on sites like MySpace and Facebook, but my results were spotty at best. Not all women on these sites are looking to be hit on by men. Plus, many women were sensitive about the age difference between myself and them. As of this writing I'm in my late thirties, and I date women from age 18 all the way to the late 40's. Age is just not something I care about when it comes to women; as long as a woman is attractive, intelligent, and not bitchy, I'm in.

(Since then, I have completely mastered the art of dating with women from social networking sites like MySpace and Facebook, so we will cover this topic later.)

So I quickly moved on to dating sites. I figured these were better, since all these women are actively looking for a man to date.

And I was right.

Within a few weeks of experimentation, I was going out on numerous dates with some of the most beautiful women I have ever seen in person in my entire life. I just couldn't believe it.

It took a while. I had to test and experiment with different kinds of dating sites, different kinds of emails to send to women, which types of women were more likely to date me, when to pitch the first date, where to go on the first date, how to minimize women flaking or rescheduling the first date, and on and on.

But after months of experimentation, I got there. I had my calendar full of first dates with beautiful, fun women.

I had solved the first part of the equation: where to find beautiful women. Next, I had to figure out how to have sex with these woman. But that wasn't all. Having sex with a woman can be easy. Just promise to be her boyfriend, and she might have sex with you. Maybe.

This was not for me. Have always believed that you can't get "serious" with someone until AFTER you know that person is sexually compatible for you. I wanted to have sex first, THEN determine if she was the kind of woman I wanted to traditionally date.

So my goal was, and always has been, how to have sex with beautiful women, without having to lie, without having to stay up late into the evening, with the minimum amount of work, time, money spent, and drama dealt with.

So I went on tons of first dates. I made notes on what worked and what didn't. I tracked what I did and didn't do, and my results. I read many books and web articles on female psychology, dating, and sex. I studied dating experts and "pickup artists" and their technique. Most of these guys were picking up women at bars and clubs...not my style. But, there were plenty of things they were doing that I found I could implement, thus improving my own system.

I continued to experiment, trying different things on different women, over and over again.

Soon, I noticed specific patterns of things I ran into again and again. And I developed techniques to use them to my advantage or to overcome them.

This was all a few years ago. My system is now perfected. I now can, whenever I want, I can implement the system ("press a button"), and have sex with two to four new women every single month, with minimal effort, time, and money. Even better, every woman I have sex with is an “eight” or higher using an attractiveness scale from one to ten. The average amount of face-time I spend with a new woman, grand total, from the moment I first meet her in person to when we have sex is four to five hours...and often less than that. The total amount of money I spend from the moment I meet her to when we have sex, on average, when I do actually spend money, is around 32 dollars. About 25% of the time, it's zero dollars.

The good news is that this system is reliable and repeatable. Once you learn it, you will be able to do the same exact thing I do.

I have broken this system down into two separate manuals. The first manual (this one) is exactly what to do to use the internet to fill your calendar with first dates with attractive, cool women. The second manual, Dating Women: Getting To Sex As Quickly As Possible, covers exactly what to do to get from the first minute of the first date to sex as quickly as possible within the above parameters (without needing to stay up late into the evening, with the minimum amount of effort, time, and money, and without having to lie.)

Whether your goal is to just date and have fun, or find a girlfriend, or future wife, or just have sex, this book will help you. If you want to meet, or date, or have sex with women, with a minimum amount of time or money spent, without having to lie, and without having to go to bars or clubs, this book is for you.

One more thing...I use lots of terms and acronyms in this book. If you ever get confused, there is a glossary at the very end of this book to help you.

Let's get started!

Chapter Two

The Sequence And The Attitude

In this book, you are going to learn how to schedule as many first dates as you want with attractive women from online dating and social networking sites. This is the sequence we are going to follow:

1. Determine your dating sites to use.
2. Set up your profile.
3. Find targets.
4. Email blitz to targets.
5. Communicate with prospects.
6. Schedule dates with prospects.
7. Establish comfort with confirmed prospects.
8. Ensure minimum amount of “flaking” prior to the first date.
9. Have the first date.

During the dating process you will move a woman from one category to the next, ending in a final category of your choosing. The categories, in chronological order, are:

1. Target. A woman who you've seen on the internet and who looks interesting to you.

2. Prospect. A woman you're communicating with online who seems to be interested in you. Whether or not she actually is interested in you is unknown at this point.
3. Confirmed Prospect. A woman who has scheduled an actual first date with you, with a date, time and place, but the date hasn't happened yet.
4. Dating Prospect. A woman you've been on at least one date with, though nothing has happened between the two of you other than talking or maybe some casual kissing.
5. ONS. One Night Stand. A woman you have sex with, and never have sex with again. (This is not really my style, but that may be something you enjoy.)
6. FB. Fuck buddy. A woman you've dated and had sex with, and who you really have no desires for beyond just sex.
7. WD. Woman you're Dating. A woman you are dating, having sex with, and have real feelings for, but one you are not exclusive with (yet...or maybe ever).
8. LTR. Long Term Relationship. A woman you've dated, had sex with, and have made some commitments to.

This book covers the very beginning of the online process all the way to the beginning of the first date. Thus, it tackles women in the above categories 1, 2, and 3. In Dating Women: Getting To Sex As Quickly As Possible, we discuss specific details on how to get from the first date to having sex with her...but frankly, a lot of the heavy lifting is already accomplished once she is sitting across from you, relaxed, with a level of rapport, comfort, and mystery already established. More on this later.

Here are some overall realities to keep in mind as you date online and move through this sequence:

Time Is Against You

When dating online, time is your absolute ENEMY. Every single MINUTE that passes between when you first start emailing a woman back and forth and when you actually meet her in person REDUCES your chances of ever seeing her.

I cannot tell you how many times I have been communicating with an absolutely gorgeous babe, we've got a first meet scheduled, and she's DYING to meet me, and she's sending me texts about how amazing I am, or how much she wants to fuck me, or whatever, but then the meet gets rescheduled and delayed because of work emergencies, or family emergencies, or her being out of town, or holidays, or bad weather, or sickness, or whatever, and then when I try to re-schedule, she either ignores my communication or says "Actually, I've started seeing someone and want to see where this goes....."

Remember this: When dating online, ALL the men she knows in real life are higher priority than you.

If any one of these guys makes a move (and the better looking she is, the more likely they will), you're OUT. This is why it's SO critical to nail down that first date as quickly as possible, and have it be as SOON as possible. Be forceful about it. Often, you'll have a situation where a women who is really interested in you will say "Hey, there's no rush, let's keep talking and getting to know each other." Or "I don't meet people until I get to know them better." DON'T buy into that! There IS a rush. If you buy into this and just “keep talking”, in a week she will suddenly not be responding to your emails/texts/phone calls...because she’ll be having sex with some other guy.

A very hard concept for men to swallow is that women like to talk forever to guys online. They really enjoy it, even if they never end up meeting you. You avoid this phenomenon by pushing for a real life meet, and do it very soon.

Remember this rhyme: Don't waste time when online.

You Must Put In The Numbers

Throughout this book, I’m going to be repeating this over and over again, so get used to it. This dating system will NOT work if you run it on one woman at a time. You must make sure you are running this sequence on MANY women at a time, as many as possible in fact...not one at a time. When I’m in full dating mode, I literally have 15 to 45 women somewhere in the process.

That might sound like a lot, but as you read further and learn the system, it really isn’t. These numbers are necessary, even IF your goal is to find a serious girlfriend or wife.

This is because:

1. No matter how cool you are, rich you are, good looking you are, or desirable you are, the vast majority of the women you email will not respond.
2. About 40% of the women who do respond and demonstrate interest will suddenly stop emailing you and you’ll never hear from them again.

3. About 20% of the women you schedule a first meet with will cancel on you and you'll never hear from them again.
4. About 80% to 30% (depending on how good your real-life skills are with women are) of the woman you have a first date with will not want to see you again.
5. Some women YOU will determine you don't like after the first date, and won't want to see again.

See why doing this on a one-woman-at-a-time basis won't work? Or even five women at time? You simply MUST put in the numbers to overcome this attrition. This is the most important overall concept in this entire book...don't get hung up on one "perfect" woman! Put in the numbers!

Confidence and Outcome Independence

Some men date a lot and/or talk to a lot of women, know a lot of women, perhaps go on lots of first "dates" (or similar), but never get laid. Other men date and actually get laid a lot, almost effortlessly. The difference between these two types of men is two things: confidence and outcome independence (or OI).

Confidence means you can sit across from a Hollywood-level gorgeous woman, and be totally relaxed and unafraid.

Confidence is demonstrated by things like talking slowly and deeply, slow movements, solid eye contact, a relaxed, kicked-back demeanor, laughter, and a big smile.

Confidence is not "acting cool" or "acting tough". No, a truly confident man doesn't have to do either of these things.

Confidence is acting relaxed and at ease.

OI means that you literally don't give shit. You don't care if you ever see this woman ever again. You don't care what she thinks about you. If she rips off her clothes and throws herself at you, or she ends up calling you an asshole and storms off, never seeing you again...it's all the same to you. You just don't care.

Confidence and OI are very, very attractive qualities to women. As a matter of fact, the more attractive and desirable a woman is, the more attracted she will be to men who are confident and outcome independent. Confidence and OI, when combined, are literally a love potion that works almost every time.

In this book, we're going to cover a lot of technique, and technique is critical. However, if you are:

1. Confident, and
2. Don't give a shit

...your technique can be POOR, and you will still be successful with women.

Whereas, if you are:

1. Inwardly nervous or feel unworthy, and/or
2. Really, really care a lot about what happens and how this ends up

...even if your technique is PERFECT, the only time you will score is if you are really lucky, or if she's really drunk.

You must master confidence and OI before your technique will do anything of real value for you. If you start communicating with women online in a nervous or needy way, you will have to contact a lot more women, and work much harder to score dates.

You may already be a confident, outcome-independent guy. That's great. But what if you're not? How do you develop confidence and OI if you don't have it? You can't just tell someone "be confident" or "just don't care what she says!" Clearly that won't work.

So you have to ACT confident and outcome independent. Keep acting this way, and you will eventually FEEL this way. So how exactly do you do that?

1. Learn exactly what confidence and outcome independence looks like.

A. For confidence, study any James Bond movie, any old Arnold Schwarzenegger action movie, and study men in movies like Morgan Freeman, Ed Harris, and Sean Connery (there are many other good examples of confident men in movies and on TV...choose as you like).

B. For OI, study guys in movies like Jim Carrey, Kevin Kline, and especially James Woods, the absolute king of OI. The two best movies to study James Woods, to learn what true OI looks like: The 1988 film Cop, and the 1994 film The Specialist.

Cop is insane, dark, and beautiful. James Woods is doing things like murdering suspects, telling his boss to go fuck himself, having S&M sex with witnesses, and just doing whatever he damn well pleases (it also has one of the best endings in Hollywood history, in my opinion).

In The Specialist, the movie itself isn't that great, but it's fascinating to watch the contrast between confidence and OI. When you watch it, notice the clear difference between the confident-type villain (played by Eric Roberts) and “don’t give a shit” villain, played by Woods. It’s great.

Quick side note: There is one guy that even beats James Woods if you want to do a little digging. The BBC science fiction television series Dr. Who, back in the 1970’s, had the main character played by a man named Tom Baker. If you want to see OI in action, this guy was amazing. Rent or buy some DVD’s (they are still being published), try to ignore the terrible 1970’s BBC special effects, and watch this guy. This guy did not give a shit. He was a genius. If James Woods is the OI king, Tom Baker was the OI god. (The current, modern Doctor Who, David Tennant, is also very good).

2. Walk around your house, in front of the mirror, and in front of friends, emulating how these men move, walk, and talk. Literally practice this. Do it over and over again. Way back when I got started with all of this, when I felt myself drifting, I would sometimes channel James Bond, Arnold Schwarzenegger, James Woods, or Tom Baker when I was communicating with a woman (nowadays it’s embedded in who I am so it’s automatic).

3. If you really want to make this work, and still don’t think you’re quite there, once you think you’ve got these mannerisms down, pick out your ugliest female friend and take her out on a fake date. If you want, explain what you’re trying to do. DON’T try to have sex her! You want OI! You don’t care what happens (remember?).

On the “date” pick out your favorite example for confidence and your favorite example for OI, and while you’re with her, act like him all night. I don’t care if you are nervous as hell inside. Act the part.

Hey, if you end up actually having sex with your ugly female friend, fine, but that's not the objective here. Your objective is to practice acting confident and outcome independent.

4. Control your body language. Whenever you walk, imagine a string attached to the top of your head, pulling you upward like a puppet. This will force you to walk very differently.

When sitting, lean BACK, and completely relax. Don't slouch (that's actually leaning forward). Lean back. Don't lean forward like you're interested, and don't sit up ramrod straight like you've spent 10 years in the marines. Lean back. Chill. Act like you actually are the owner of wherever you are...the bar, club, restaurant, mall, wherever (I always do).

5. Do it again. Take another one of your female friends "out". Practice your acting. Rinse and repeat.

6. When you start emailing women, or IMing women, or texting women or talking to women on the phone while using this system, practice confidence and OI at all times. Actually re-read every email you are about to send to a woman and ask yourself "Am I demonstrating confidence or nervousness? Am I demonstrating outcome independence or neediness?" Soon...it will start to become automatic. The damnest thing will start to happen. You'll actually start to feel confident and less worried about "what's going to happen" or "getting it right" .

And then you know what?

Your results will suddenly skyrocket.

Chapter Three

Preparation

You must have several things in place before you start your online dating adventure. Before you start blitzing out emails to hot chicks, make sure you have the following items in place.

1. A cool MySpace page and a cool Facebook page. Yes, you must have both, unless you don't want to date women under the age of 23. In that case, just a Facebook page will probably be fine. As of this writing, MySpace seems to slowly be going away, but we're not quite there yet. (If you are a guy over age 30 and are interested in dating women between the ages of 18 and 23, take a look at my ebook on that specific subject, How To Attract And Date Younger Women.)

Even if you intend on dating women through dating sites and not MySpace or Facebook (a good recommendation when first getting started, by the way), you still need a cool MySpace/Facebook page. As you will soon see, Facebook and MySpace are very powerful tools to solidify dating prospects you find on dating sites.

Your MySpace/Facebook page must be fun, female-friendly, and demonstrate you are a fun guy who does lots of interesting things, and who is desired by other women. Now, this isn't a book on how to make cool MySpace or Facebook page that will appeal to women (there are many other ebooks on the market on how to do this), but here are some general pointers:

A. Include lots of pictures. Pictures of you, pictures of your pets (women love animals), pictures of you in other cities or countries if you travel, pictures of you with other pretty women having fun, pictures of you doing interesting things, etc. You get the idea.

- B. Be funny and witty in any text you have on there. Be creative.
- C. Have lots of comments from other women posted, preferably pretty women.
- D. Have lots of friends on your MySpace/Facebook profile. If you don't have lots of friends yet, hide your friends list until you do.
- E. Anytime you update your status, have it be something that conveys your value as a man. Not "Joe is hungry", but "Joe is going to Vegas tomorrow!" or "Joe just signed up a new client!"

2. Next, you need an instant messaging account with both Yahoo IM and MSN Messenger. Yes, you must have both. If you don't already have both, set up an account, and download the necessary software, and get comfortable using both systems. They're quite simple.

3. A spreadsheet program like Microsoft Excel. (Throughout this manual I'm going to assume you already know the basics of how to use a spreadsheet...if you don't, learn.) Don't want to buy a spreadsheet program? No problem, use the online spreadsheet program in Google Documents or download Open Office, both of which are free.

Once you start in with the process, keeping track of all these women, what you said to whom, how long it's been since you talked to whom, etc, is going to get VERY complicated unless you have an easy way to track it all. And a spreadsheet is how you do it.

Set up a new spreadsheet with the following column headers (I'll explain what they mean in a minute):

Name, Online Name, Days Since Her, Day Since You, DOLCFH, DOLCFM, Status, TEP, Phone/IM, Web, and Notes.

Optionally, you may add some other columns that describe aspects of women that are important to you, such as Age, Height, Hair Color, Number of Children, Priority, etc. In my own spreadsheet, I actually include a facial photo of each woman (small enough to fit in a cell) to remind me of who's who. (This is critical for me since I can easily have over 40 women on my spreadsheet at one time.)

The columns mean the following:

Name: Her real name, first and last.

Online name: Her login name or profile name on the dating site

Days Since Her: This is the single most important column in your spreadsheet. It's the number of days it's been since you've heard from her. It's a formula: today's date minus the date in the DOLCFH column.

Days Since Me: This is the number of days since YOU contacted HER. Again, it's a formula...today's date minus the date in the DOLCFM column.

DOLCFH: Stands for "Date Of Last Contact From Her".

Every time you hear from her, you're going to enter today's date in this column (more on this later).

DOLCFM: Stands for "Date Of Last Contact From Me".

Every time you contact her in any way, enter today's date in this column.

Status: This is one or two words on exactly how you're communicating with her currently. It could be the word "Match.com" or "Email" or "Texting".

TEP: This is the number of times you have emailed her on the dating site within an ongoing email conversation. More on this later.

Phone/IM: This just includes a “Y” or a “N”. It’s whether or not you’ve had a phone call or IM conversation with her prior to the first date to establish comfort. More on this later.

Web: Again, this just includes a “Y” or a “N”. It’s whether or not she has seen your MySpace/Facebook page(s) or any other web sites that feature you.

Notes: Make this column nice and long. You can put whatever you want in here...usually whether or not you’ve already asked her out, or problems you’ve encountered with her, or whatever.

We’ll go through specifically how to use the spreadsheet and the specific applications of these columns as we go along. The important thing now is to just get it ready. There will be a “spreadsheet section” at the end of each chapter to tell you exactly what to do with the spreadsheet as we progress.

4. A word processing program or spreadsheet program (you choose) where you will keep all of your copy-and-paste email openers and responses, and lists of women you’ve emailed, so you don’t try to re-open the same women over and over again.
